Kalyani in question appears to be a public reservoir not particularly connected with the temple in Bennerghatta.

2. As the reservoir is used by the public for bathing purposes, it is more out of sanitary considerations that the improvement of the tank is sought by the Local Fund Board, and the cost there will therefore be a legitimate charge on the L.F. Funds. Besides, the temple receives only a small Sandik, and has no funds whatever at its credit.

3. The estimate received with the Docket under reply is herewith returned.
